Dear Fran:

Thanks for giving me the opportunity to do the research on Laurens DeCamp's family. This may be one of those "permanent brick walls"! That being said, I may have a couple of clues to offer.

First of all the easy items. [See enclosed Family Group Records for sources]

[1] The father of Mary [Maria Jansen] Prall was indeed Arent Jansen Prall; however, he was not born in "Nardy, France." Arent was born in either Naerden or Heerde in the Netherlands about 1646. He is listed as "van Naerden" in his marriage record. Recent research suggests that that may be a transcription error. He may have been born in Heerde, where his "possible" father Jan Arentzsen van Heerde was from and came to America in 1650. [No one has been able to locate a Nardy in France. The best explanation, and a sensible one, that I have heard is that someone mistook 'Noord de France' for 'Nardy, France'. Noord de France is the department of Northern France. It is entirely possible that the Pralls originally came from there.

[2] Arent's wife, Marie/Maria/Mary Billiou, did not arrive with her parents. Most Prall, Billiou, and DuBois researchers believe that Marie came to New Netherland with her uncle and aunt, Louis and Francoise [Billiou] DuBois. She was probably enlisted by her uncle to help care for the young children. That would explain her being in Kingston in 1670 when she married Arent.

[3] Pierre Billiou's father was Jeacq / Jean Billiou. The letter cited as the source for his marriage, contained the marriage record and named Pierre's father. Thomas Billiou is believed to be Jean's father.

Now, on to the items of real interest to you. The information is a bit shaky, but may be worth a follow-up. The Connecticut data may be somewhat inaccurate, which explains no DeCamps there at the time in question. I have included the following items:
[1] pp. 53-4 from The Elston Family in America [copied from Ancestry.com]
[2] two 1998 postings on GenForum – DeCamp Family
[3] four postings from the DeCamp mailing list on Rootsweb.com 2000

It appears Joseph Kelsey was from CT and moved to Elizabethtown, NJ "about 1700." All of his children were born there. Unless Laurens DeCamp made a business trip to CT and took his daughter along, there is no explanation for her being there. I think it more likely that Kelsey moved to NJ closer to 1695-97.

The consensus from the message postings is that someone may have made an error in transcribing the name of Laurens's firstborn and it was carried on through the generations. The first child was recorded as 'Joannes', and therefore was assumed to be a male child. The 2nd child was named 'Johannis/Johannes" and was a male child. It is entirely possible that this first child was actually a daughter and should have been recorded as 'Joanna' or 'Joannah.' That would make her the best candidate to be the wife of Joseph Kelsey. It does not appear that conclusive evidence is available, but there is a fair-to-good chance that "Joanna" DeCamp married Joseph Kelsey. [The letters 'a' & 'h' can easily be misread in early records.] One of the Rootsweb messages has the family of Laurens DeCamp.

I am also enclosing Family Group Records for Arent Prall, Pierre Billiou, and Johannes DeCamp. If you do not have the DeCamp Genealogy, the Higginson Book Co. prints old genealogies. The DeCamp book is on the list. [148 Washington St., Salem, MA 01370, 978-745-7170] Higginson may have the Kelsey Gen. as well.

I hope this helps. Thanks for attending my presentation at the library!

Sincerely,

Terry

some of the neighboring Indians, by whom they sent a letter to Stuyvesant, imploring help. Yachts were immediately despatched from New Amsterdam, and the director went in person to the scene of the disaster. The emigrants, and most of the cargo, were brought in safety to New Amsterdam, where the other vessels had arrived meanwhile."[1] A few weeks later, they proceeded on their way to the South river. We shall not at present follow the history of this Waldensian colony, but will reserve for another volume the account of the settlement in Delaware. It is not unlikely that some of the colonists may have remained in New Amsterdam, instead of re-embarking for the place of their original destination.

Waldenses on Staten Island.

Certain it is, that in the course of the next few years, a number of Waldensian families came over from Holland, several of whom established themselves on Staten Island. Pierre Martin, Gerard Ive, and Juste Grand, arrived in August, 1662, on the ship Fox; and Jerome Bovie, Pierre Noue, and Pierre Parmentier—all from "Walslant"—arrived in April, 1663, on the Spotted Cow. The imperfect lists of emigration that we possess afford us no further particulars concerning this interesting episode in the history of New Netherland. But it is believed that others of the first settlers of Staten Island, besides those that have been named, were Waldenses.[2] Such, we conjecture, may have been the origin of the families of Martinou, Crucheron, Poillion, Martiline, Gannepaine, Regrenier, Casée, Perrin and Canon; all of whom appear at an early day in the history of that settlement.

Among the Walloons that came to New Netherland, in the last days of the Dutch occupation, was Louis du Bois, founder of the Huguenot settlement of New Paltz, in Ulster county, New York.

Louis was the son of Chrétien du Bois, an inhabitant of Wicres, a hamlet in the district of La Barrée, near Lille, in Flanders, where he was born on the twenty-seventh day of October, in the year 1627. The province of Flanders was at that time a dependency of Spain; and when, twenty years later, the rights of conscience were secured by the treaty of Westphalia to the Protestants of Germany, the benefits of that treaty did not extend to the Spanish dominions.

1648, October 14.

It was perhaps on this account, and in quest of religious freedom, that Louis left his native province, in early manhood, and removed, as numbers of his countrymen were doing, to the lower Palatinate. This Calvinistic state, which had taken the lead among the Protestant powers of Germany, from the outbreak of the Thirty Years' War, now offered a refuge to the oppressed Huguenots, and to the Waldenses, driven from their Alpine valleys by the fierce soldiery of Savoy. Long before this, indeed, a little colony of Walloons, flying before the troops of Alva, had come to settle within the hospitable territory of the Palatinate, at Frankenthal, only a few miles from Mannheim, its capital. Mannheim itself now became the home of many French refugees, and among them we recognize several families that afterwards removed to America. Here David de Marest, Frederic de Vaux, Abraham Hasbroucq, Chrétien Duyou, Mathèse Blanchan, Meynard Journeay, Thonnet Terrin, Pierre Parmentier, Antoine Crispel, David Usilie, Philippe Casier, Bourgeon Broucard, Simon Le Febre, Juste Durié, and others, enjoyed for several years the kindness of their German coreligionists and the protection of the good Elector Palatine. Hither Louis du Bois came, and here, on the tenth day of October, 1655, he married Catharine, daughter of Mathèse Blanchan, who, like himself, was from French Flanders. Two sons, Abraham and Isaac, were born of this marriage in Mannheim.

1655, October 10.

The Palatinate.

The refugees found much, doubtless, to bind them to the country of their adoption. They were encouraged in the free exercise of their religion. The people and their prince were Calvinists, like themselves. Openings for employment, if not for enrichment in trade, were afforded in the prosperous city, where, a century later, Huguenot merchants and manufacturers were enabled to amass large fortunes. How pleasantly and fondly they remembered the goodly Rhine-land, in after days, we may gather from the fact that the emigrants to America named their home in the wilderness, not from their native province in France, but from the place of their refuge in Germany, calling it "The New Palatinate." In spite, however, of all inducements to remain, Louis du Bois and certain of his fellow-refugees determined to remove to the New World; influenced, it may be, by a feeling of insecurity in a country lying upon the border of France, and liable to foreign invasion at any moment.

Chap. II. 1660.

The Dutch ship Gilded Otter, in the spring of the year 1660, brought over several of these families. Others followed, in the course of the same year. The little town of New Amsterdam, nestled upon the lower end of Manhattan island, presented a curious appearance to the strangers. Inclosed within the limits of Wall street and Broadway, "two hundred poorly-constructed houses gave partial comfort to some fourteen hundred people. The fort loomed up broadly in front, partially hiding within it the governor's residence, and the Dutch church. The flag of the States-General, and a wind-mill on the western bastion, were notable indications of Holland rule."

Arrival in New Amsterdam.

Our colonists did not linger long in New Amsterdam. Taking counsel doubtless of their Walloon countrymen, and obtaining permission from the governor and his council, they soon decided upon a place of settlement: and by the end of the year, Matthew Blanchan and Anthony Crispel, with their families, had established themselves in Esopus; where, before the following October, they were joined by Louis du Bois and his wife and sons.

The country lying south of the Catskill mountains, and north of the Highlands, on the west side of the North or Hudson river, was known to the Dutch from the earliest times as Esopus. Thither, even before the settlement of New Amsterdam, the Dutch traders went to traffic with the friendly Indians; and here, in 1623, the ship New Netherland, after landing some of her passengers on Manhattan island, stopped on her way up the river, to lighten her cargo. This picturesque region — now included within the bounds of Ulster county —lay midway between the two rising towns of New Amsterdam and Beverwyck. Broken by mountain ranges, the Catskills in the north, and the Shawungunk in the south; watered by numerous streams, and extensively improved by the rude husbandry of its savage occupants, the pleasant land must have attracted the longing view of the Dutch immigrants as they sailed up the Hudson to the patroon's colony at Fort Orange. But though a Dutch fort was built here—at Rondout, now a part of Kingston—as early as the year 1614, it does not appear that any settlement was effected before the year 1652. Thomas Chambers, an Englishman by birth, was the first purchaser and patentee of Esopus. He had been engaged with several others in an attempt to obtain lands near the site of the present city of Troy; but being dispossessed by the patroon, whose patent covered the locality chosen for their settlement, the associates removed to this region, and bought from the Indians a tract of land, comprising seventy-six acres, on Esopus creek, where the city of Kingston now stands. But in 1655 the Indian tribes along the Hudson river joined in attacking the Dutch settlements; and in the consternation that prevailed, the farmers at Esopus fled, leaving their homes and fields to the depredation of the savages. On the conclusion of peace, in the autumn of the same year, they returned. Neglecting, however, to form a village, suitably protected by stockades and by a fort or blockhouse, as they were urged by the government to do, the settlers were again disturbed in 1658, and implored the Director Stuyvesant to come to their relief. By his advice they now laid out a town-spot, the site of Wiltwyck, the future city of Kingston. The colonists, sixty or seventy in number, went to work with a will, under the personal supervision of the determined governor; and in less than three weeks, the place that he had chosen for the village was surrounded with palisades, a guard-house was built, and the dwellings of the settlers were moved into the space inclosed. Pleased at his own success, and delighted with the beautiful land of the Esopus, the director sailed back to New Amsterdam, "praising the Lord for His mercy on all concerned," and cautioning the Indian chiefs to leave the white men alone, inasmuch as "he could come again as easily as he went."

The Esopus war.

Wiltwyck, however, did not long enjoy repose under shelter of its new defenses. Another outbreak of Indian ferocity—stimulated by the white man's "fire-water," and provoked by the Chap. II. 1659. September 1. brutality of some of the Dutch themselves—occurred in the following year, when a band of several hundred Indian warriors invested the little town for three weeks. Again Director Stuyvesant came to the rescue. Partly by force of arms, and partly through the mediation of other Indian tribes, he succeeded in bringing the savages to terms; 1660. July 15. and on the fifteenth day of July, 1660, peace was concluded.

1660 It was at this juncture that Louis du Bois and his companions arrived in New Amsterdam. The great "Esopus war," which, for many months past, had convulsed all the settlements, from Long Island to Fort Orange, with fear, was now over. The prospects of the little colony at Wiltwyck were brightening; and the beautiful region which Governor Stuyvesant had found so fruitful, and "capable of making yet fifty farms," was open to the new immigrants. Lands in the rich valleys of the Rondout and the Esopus were to be had for the asking. Provision was made for the religious instruc- Dominie Blom. tion of the colonists. Hermanus Blom, a clergyman of the Reformed Church of Holland, sent over expressly to minister at Esopus, had been, for several weeks, awaiting in New Amsterdam the result of the negotiations for peace. These, not improbably, were the considerations that led our Walloons to fix upon Esopus as their future home. Early in the autumn of the year 1660, they took their departure from New Amsterdam. The Company's yacht, which carried Dominie Blom to the place of his labors, may have had on board some of their number. Chap. II. 1660. Certain it is, that among the persons admitted to the Lord's Supper, upon the occasion of its first celebration in Esopus, on the seventh day of December in that year, were Matthew Blanchan, with Madeleine Jorisse, his wife, and Anthony Crispel, with Maria Blanchan, his wife.

The spot where, after many wanderings, our refugees at length had found a home, was happily chosen. It lay but a short distance from that noble river, whose majestic course and varied scenery must have vividly recalled to them the Rhine. The plateau upon which the village of Wiltwyck stood was skirted by Esopus creek. From the banks along which the palisades protecting it had been constructed, the settlers overlooked the fertile lands occupied by the farms of the white men, and by the patches upon which the Indian women still raised their crops of maize and beans. The beautiful valley of the Wallkill opened toward the southwest. On the north, the wooded slopes of the Catskill mountains were visible.

Blanchan and Crispel were soon joined at Wiltwyck by Louis du Bois, and shortly after by a fourth Walloon family, that of Rachel de la Montagne, daughter of Jean de la Montagne of New Amsterdam, and now wife of Gysbert Imborch. Meantime, another settlement had 1662. been commenced in the Esopus country. The "New Village," afterwards known as Hurley, was founded about a mile to the west of Wiltwyck. Taught by experience, the settlers took pains to protect their homes against the attacks of the savages. The houses and barns were built within a fortified inclosure, where fifteen families formed a compact community. Blanchan and his two sons-in-law were among those who removed from Wiltwyck to the New Village. A summer passed by, and the colonists remained undisturbed. They were, however, by no means safe from molestation. Stuyvesant's severity in sending some of his Indian prisoners, at the close of the Esopus war, to the island of

The new village.

Curaçoa, had left a lasting impression of resentment in the minds of the savages. The building of the "New Village," upon land to which they still laid claim, was an additional grievance. Underrating either the courage or the strength of their wild neighbors, the settlers took no suitable precautions against attack, but on the contrary, with strange infatuation, sold to them freely the rum that took away their reason and intensified their worst passions. The time came for an uprising. Stuyvesant had sent word to the Indian chiefs, through the magistrates of Wiltwyck, that he would shortly visit them, to make them presents, and to renew the peace concluded the year before. The message was received with professions of friendliness.

June 7.

Two days after, about noon, on the seventh of June, a concerted attack was made by parties of Indians upon both the settlements. The destruction of the "New Village" was complete. Every dwelling was burned. The greater number of the adult inhabitants had gone forth that day as usual to their field work upon the outlying farms, leaving some of the women, with the little children, at home. Three of the men, who had doubtless returned to protect them, were killed; and eight women, with twenty-six children, were taken prisoners. Among these were the families of our Walloons: the wife and three children of Louis du Bois, the two children of Matthew Blanchan, and Anthony Crispel's wife and child. The rest of the people, those at work in the fields, and those who could escape from the village, fled to the neighboring woods, and in the course of the afternoon made their way to Wiltwyck, or to the redoubt at the mouth of Esopus creek.

Meanwhile, the attack at Wiltwyck had been less successful. Parties of Indians had entered the village in the morning, carrying maize and beans to sell, and under this pretense, had distributed themselves in the different houses; when suddenly a number of men on horseback came dashing through the mill-gate, shouting, "The Indians have destroyed the New Village!" At once, the savages already within the place began their work of havoc. Twelve houses were burned, and but for a timely change of wind the entire settlement would have been consumed.

Brave defense of Wiltwyck.

Some of the Indians, seizing the women and children, hastened away with them into the forest: whilst others, stationed near the gates, despatched those of the men who attempted to enter the town. As at the New Village, most of the inhabitants were away, at their employments in the neighboring fields. A few brave men, however, chanced to be at home. These, though without guns or side arms, soon rallied, and resolutely facing the assailants, succeeded in driving them out. By nightfall, Dominie Blom and his companions were joined by the people from the farms, and by straggling fugitives from the New Village. No time could be spent in lamentation over their losses. The palisades surrounding the place had been destroyed by the fire. All night long the colonists toiled to replace them, or kept watch along the exposed borders. Day dawned upon a scene of woe and desolation. Seventy of the inhabitants were missing. Of these, twenty-four had been ruthlessly murdered; while forty-five, women and children, had been hurried away into captivity. The sight of the burned and mutilated bodies, lying amid the ruins of the dwellings and in the streets, was scarcely more affecting than the thought of the living, in the hands of the merciless savages. Among these were Rachel de la Montagne, and the wife and child of Dominie Blom.

Consternation at New Amsterdam.

The tidings of this disaster spread consternation throughout the Dutch settlements. Director Stuyvesant, always energetic, and ready for severe measures, was the more disposed to act promptly and resolutely in the present case, because of the loss incurred by his trusty councilor in the capture of his daughter. With some difficulty, a force was raised for the defense of Wiltwyck, and for the rescue of the prisoners in the hands of the Esopus Indians. Nearly a month elapsed, however, before two sloops, carrying supplies to the destitute inhabitants, and having on board a company of Dutch and English soldiers, and of friendly Indian braves, entered Esopus creek. They were joined at Wiltwyck by a band of five Mohawks, sent down from Fort Orange, for the purpose of endeavoring to secure the release of the captives through mediation. In the meantime, Rachel de la Montagne had made her escape from the savages, and was ready to conduct the rescuing party to the Indian fort, thirty miles to the south-west of Wiltwyck, whither the prisoners had been conveyed. The expedition set forth, under the command of the fearless Captain Krygier, on the twenty-sixth of July, and on the next day reached the fort, but found it deserted. The Indians had retreated with their captives to a more distant fastness in the Shawungunk mountains. Krygier pursued them, but without success, and after setting fire to the fort, and destroying large quantities of corn which they found stored away in pits, or growing in the fields, the party returned to Wiltwyck without the loss of a man. Another month passed before a second attempt could be made. Information came through friendly savages that the Esopus Indians were building another fort. So soon as the weather permitted, and a supply of horses could be obtained, Krygier set forth again. This time, the enemy was taken by surprise. A fierce combat ensued; many of the Chap. II. 1664. September 6. But meanwhile, New Netherland had become an English possession. On the sixth day of September, in the year 1664, articles of capitulation were signed, by commissioners representing the States-General of Holland and the king of England: and the Dutch city and province received the name of the city and province of New York.

David Provost, the founder of an important family of New Amsterdam and New York, arrived from Holland as early as the year 1639. He is said to have been the descendant of one Guillaume Provost, a Huguenot, who was a resident of Paris at the time of the massacre of St. Bartholomew's day, and who succeeded in escaping to Holland. (The New York Geneaological and Biographical Record. Vol. VI., pp. 1–24.)

The family of De Peyster, originating, it is believed, in France, was likewise driven from that country, according to tradition, at the time of the massacre, and took refuge in Holland. Johannes de Peyster, born in Haarlem early in the seventeenth century, came to America, and about the year 1652, established himself in New Amsterdam, where he became a leading merchant. He died previous to the year 1686, leaving four sons, the eldest of whom, Colonel Abraham de Peyster, took a distinguished part in public affairs. (Manual of the Corporation of the City of New York for 1861. Pp. 556–576.)

It is possible that Rouen, in Normandy, may have been the birthplace of this family. Two facts would indicate this. (1.) A sister of the refugee who fled to Holland, "returned to settle at Rouen, where, in the succeeding century, she lived a widow, in the possession of an ample fortune." (Manual, etc., p. 556.) (2.) In a "mémoire" of persons conspicuous in the town of Rouen, in 1689, for their zeal in behalf of their religion, I find the name of "Le sieur Depeister, Hollandois, depuis longtemps establi à Rouen. C'est un marchand naturalisé." (Le protestantisme in Normandie, par M. Francis Waddington. P. 25.) Perhaps a descendant of the refugee, this merchant may have gone back, like the sister mentioned above, to the ancient home.

sanction.[1] On board the Company's ships, the greater number of which were commanded by Huguenot masters, the Reformed service was celebrated with all publicity, both in port and at sea. Calvin's prayers were said in the forecastle, and Marot's psalms were sung, the loud voices of the sailors drowning the chant of the priest, as he said mass in another part of the ship, for the Roman Catholic portion of the crew. In some of the French islands, there were Huguenot congregations, duly organized, though without "temples" or houses of worship. The governor and council of Massachusetts received certificates in 1680 from "the French Protestant Church at St. Christopher's," attesting the character of two of its members.[2] These congregations were supplied with pastors by the Synod of the Walloon Churches of Holland.[1] But when destitute of such ministrations, the Huguenot islander could readily obtain the benefits of religious instruction and consolation, by visiting the neighboring islands of the Dutch and English.[2] The English quarter of St. Christopher was well provided with churches. At St. Eustatius, the Dutch pastor preached in French

[1] Charles de Rochefort, the presumed author of the "Histoire Naturelle et Morale des Iles Antilles" already cited, was at the time of its publication pastor of the Walloon church in Rotterdam. In 1650, he is named as "ci-devant Ministre du St. Evangile en Amerique."—(Signatures des Pasteurs, etc.; Confession de Foy des Eglises Réformées des Païs-bas. Leyden, 1769.) From various indications it would seem probable that the author of the "Histoire" had exercised his ministry in the islands of Martinique and St. Christopher.

[2] "The English have built as many as five handsome churches in this island [St. Christopher]. The first, which is met upon leaving the French quarter, is at the pointe des Palmistes. The second stands near the great bay (la grande rade), below the Governor's residence. The third is at the pointe de Sable, and the other two are in the quarter of Cayonne. The first three are structures of pleasing appearance, after the fashion of the country ; the interior being adorned with fine pulpits and chairs of valuable kinds of wood. The clergymen who perform Divine Service were formerly sent hither by the Archbishop of Canterbury, whose vicar was Doctor Fiatley, chaplain to the late King of England, and pastor of the church at the pointe des Palmistes. But at present [1658] they receive their ordination from the Synods, which possess the episcopal authority."—(De Rochefort, Hist. Nat. et Morale des Iles Antilles, etc., p. 40.)

Besides these five churches, there were three on the island of Nevis, which is separated from St. Christopher by a channel only two miles in width.—(Ibid. p. 29.)

The facilities which the French Protestant inhabitants of St. Christopher enjoyed for attending these English services —"d'aller au prêche chez les Anglois"—are noticed in a government order in 1686. See below.

W[illegible]t Jersey under 4 Flags. TURP before rea[illegible]g Washington. Such a man, caught by an informer, would be, and was placed under arrest and court-martialed. In one case investigated by the writer, the summary judgment had attached to it a letter from the soldier's commanding officer attesting to the fact that the soldier was not AWOL, but was on leave. The letter arrived too late, and in the confusion and turmoil of a Washington threatened by Confederate forces, this court-martial stood.

The New Jersey men served well and honorably. The Ninth Regiment, in twenty-eight battles, and the Tenth Regiment, in thirty-three battles, typified the valor and distinguished records of the various regiments at Wilderness, Shenandoah, Winchester, Appomattox, Bull Run, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Spotsylvania, and other scenes of battle. Many are buried at Beverly and at Pleasantville, while on a quiet bend of the now highly polluted Delaware River lie 2,436 Confederate soldiers. Their graves on the riverbank are overgrown with marsh grass and weeds, their heroism forgotten. Known as Finns Point National Cemetery, the burial ground contains many Confederate soldiers who died while held in the Union prison on Pea Patch Island.

Those who experienced the war learned that it was a long and bloody business of rush and wait; a business given to killing unknown men against whom they had no personal hatred; a business which perverted all the normal instincts of man; a business in which the enlistees sacrificed homes, wives, and children, if not their minds, bodies, and souls, only to be forgotten and pushed aside once the war was over. And finally, they learned that for those who served well and honorably, there were those who stayed at home and gained enrichment; that those who declared war and those who declaimed the glories of war were not those who did the fighting and the dying. But the lesson dies with the generation and must needs be learned anew through experience by each new generation.

Finns Point National Cemetery recalls the early Finn settlement of Salem County. Buried in the same acreage are those Union soldiers who died while assigned to the supervision of the Confederate prisoners. The latter were buried en masse. Much later, in 1879, a replica of Grant's tomb was erected in memory of the Union soldiers, while nearby an eighty-five-foot obelisk was constructed in 1910 on which a tablet bears the names of the Confederate soldiers lying there. They never went home, even as many Union soldiers never went home.

THE 1794 MILITIA ENROLLMENT, GLOUCESTER COUNTY

By act of the New Jersey Legislature, every free and able-bodied white, male citizen between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years was required to enroll in the militia of the state. Such enrollment was made within the township wherein the men were residents. This enrollment remains, today, the nearest record of population census possessed for the period of 1794.

Samuel Flannigan, commissioner of the county of Gloucester, appointed deputies in each township to "enroll all the inhabitants . . . and make a true return to the same to" the above.

And finally, they learned that for those who served well and honorably, there were those who stayed at home and gained advancement; that those who declared war and those who proclaimed the glories of war were not those who did the fighting and the dying. But the lesson dies with the generation and must needs be learned anew through experience by each new generation.

Finns Point National Cemetery recalls the early Finn settlement of Salem County. Buried in the same acreage are those Union soldiers who died while assigned to the supervision of the Confederate prisoners. The latter were buried en masse. Much later, in 1879, a replica of Grant's tomb was erected in memory of the Union soldiers, while nearly an eighty-five-foot obelisk was constructed in 1910 on which a tablet bears the names of the Confederate soldiers lying there. They never went home, even as many Union soldiers never went home.

There are some conflicts in this information.

1) Laurent Jansen DeCAMP & Elsie Altje "Alice Lettice" DeMANDEVILLE were living in New Utrecht NY in 1675, not Middlesex Co., NJ. Also, Middlesex Co., NJ, was not formed until 1683. Other references I have seen apparently are to a common source -- a book on the Kelsey family, which incorrectly states that Henry DeCamp was the immigrant, and apparently confuses Laurens Jansen DeCamp with his grandson, also named Lawrence. See the quote from GenForum below. I haven't seen the Kelsey book, but I have looked over the other sources.
2) The feminine diminutive would be either Johanna or Joanna, ending in -a or -ah; the diminutives ending in -es or -is indicates males at that time. An incorrect transcription of handwriting is possible. However, I have been unable to establish where the original records of the Flatbush RDC are located. Morrison's book is unclear as to the exact records he consulted. I understand that his notes and records are in the library of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society. This is library is located in New York City, where I don't go often. Is anyone on our list a member, who might be able to see if they have something in their collection that would help?

Clearly, we need to have a source reference for the birth location, and a resolution of the gender question. An answer, based on original documentation, would be a major contribution to our research. If anyone has other suggestions that I can check out, please let me know.

The following is quoted from GenForum (Kelsey):

The Kelsey Genealogy Vol. I pg 66 mentions that Laurens De Camp is mentioned as a cousin in the will of Joseph Kelsey plantar of Elizabethtown N.J." most likely his wife's relative". It also says that a Henry De Camp, a grandson of Laurens Jans immigrated from Holland to New Amsterdam in 1664, and settled in Middlesex County, New Jersey.

Dear Roberta,

This individual is a mystery. The Morrison book gives the children of Laurens Jansen DeCamp as shown below. The names are accurate, at least judging by a published transcription of the Dutch baptismal records. I don't know where the originals are kept. There's no child that might correspond to the DeCamp who married Joseph Kelsey. The name of the youngest (Joannes, as given by Morrison) still corresponds to a male diminutive, as I have been told on a Dutch list. The feminine would have been Johanna or Joanna.

There seem to be several possibilities:
1) a lost church record,
2) an unbaptized child,
3) a transcription error, attributing the child to Laurens Jansen, perhaps,
4) an illegitimate child,
5) an adopted child,
6) unrecorded female immigrant,
and many other possibilities.

At least as of this time, I can't offer any identification of this unknown DeCamp who married Joseph Kelsey. The only thing that seems sure is that her name was not Joannes, and that the Kelsey records that claim this are in error.

I've posted this query to the Kelsey GenForum without resolution.

bridge who died intestate and for whose estate Jonathan Bishop, a creditor, was appointed administrator Oct. 1, 1762. See also under Benjamin (14).

53* Daniel, b. about 1730.

14 BENJAMIN ELSTON, of Woodbridge, son of Peter (3), was born before 1713, because on Nov. 29, 1733, he recorded an ear mark for his cattle. On Mar. 14, 1758, additions were made to this mark. He first m. Ruth Kelsey by whom he had five sons living Sept. 22, 1750, when he made his will. She died July 25, 1750. She was a dau. of Joseph Kelsey of Elizabethtown. The latter's will, Feb. 13, 1739-40, mentions his dau. Ruth Ellstone. The will of his son Joseph Kelsey Apr. 24, 1752, mentions the "children of his sister Ruth dec'd, wife of Benjamin Elstone," and also his cousin Lowrence Decamp. It doesn't appear whether or not the Benjamin Alston who 9th mo. (Nov.) 7th, 1750, was included in a long list of those who owed the estate of James Jackson, was this man or his nephew Benjamin (52). The notes of a previous genealogist say that this Benjamin m. (2) Margaret Van Camp, who survived him. If this is the case, it must have been the nephew who is referred to in the records of the Presbyterian Church at Westfield: "1759 July the 10th Benjamin Ellstone and Margaret Waller were married by me, both of Woodbridge." From the will of Benjamin Elston of Woodbridge, yeoman (given in "N. J. Arch." and also in "Early Germans of New Jersey," by Theodore F. Chambers), dated Sept. 22, 1750 and proved May 15, 1760, and from the settlement of the estate, we learn about his wife Margaret, his ch. Isaack, Enoch, Abraham, and John (all under age), his sister Hannah, James More, son of his sister Margaret, and his son-in-law (stepson) Lowrance van Camp (also under age). A legacy from his Uncle Joseph Kelsey to his son Abraham was mentioned.

After other executors refused to act, Margaret Elstone, the widow, May 12, 1760, declined the administration of the estate in favor of her son-in-law (stepson), Abraham Elstone. Abraham gave bond as administrator May 15, 1760. The inventory was filed May 20, 1760, signed by Jonathan Frazee and Ebenezer Foster, and amounted to £201-15-11 including: three Bibles and other books, 6s; 9 bushels of wheat £3-3; 20 bushels of rye £2-5-6, 3 do. of oats and 2 do. of Indian corn. Accounting was made June 27, 1760, by the administrator, Abraham Elston, who charged against the estate £127-17-1, partly for his wife's care of his father and partly funeral expense of his brother Ezekiel. The widow may have been the Margaret Elstone who Feb. 3, 1763, m. at Westfield John Frazee. Such a view is strengthened by the fact that Jonathan Frazee signed the inventory of the estate May 20, 1760. There seems to be some confusion in early records between John, Jonathan and Joh.

Little has been found about the Lawrence DeCamp (Van Camp) who was his son-in-law, or possibly his stepson. We find baptisms in the New Brunswick First Reformed Church of ch. of Lawrence DeCamp (DCamp, D Campe, DeCampe) and Jannitie (Janetye, etc.)

The Elston Family in America
Elston, James A., Rutland, VT
Tuttle Pub. Co 1984

Pt II: Ch. 1 The Woodbridge branch

The "De Camp Genealogy," by George A. Morrison, gives him as a resident of New Brunswick about 1750 with births of six ch. from 1754 to 1768. Furthermore, the relationship of Laurens De Camp to Benjamin is not clear. The abstract of the latter's will Sept. 22, 1750, as published in "N. J. Archives", gives "son-in-law (step son?) Lowrence van Camp (also under age)." The will of Joseph Kelsey, brother of Ruth Kelsey, mentions his cousin, Lowrance Decamp. There seems to be some question whether he may have been the son of Benjamin's second wife by a former m. "A Genealogy of the Descendants of William Kelsey," Claypool, Clizbee and Kelsey, says Joseph Kelsey "married . . . Decamp (?) of Middlesex County, N. J., who died before 1739." "His wife seems to have been a De Camp as in his will he names his cousin Laurens DeCamp, most likely his wife's relative." It says that Ruth was born about 1710.

54* Isaac, b. about 1732 (eldest), may have died before his father's estate was settled as he doesn't appear to have executed a renunciation. Also, Abraham when appointed executor, is referred to as eldest yet in his deed to Enoch Abraham refers to Isaac as his "elder brother."

55* Enoch, b. about 1739. On Dec. 12, 1761, Abraham Elstone of Woodbridge Twp., yeoman, deeded to Enoch Elstone of the same place a tract of land in Woodbridge and also the one half of all right that Isaac Elstone, eldest brother of Abraham, had given him to that plantation where Peter Elstone had spent the latter part of his days. On Dec. 3, 1766, Enoch sold 18 acres of the tract acquitted to him by his brother Abraham. Then his wife, Rachel, also signed the deed with her mark. Enoch was not of age when his father, Benjamin's will was made Sept. 22, 1750, but must have been Dec. 12, 1761. March ye 14th, 1758, Enoch Elstone made entry of his earmark.

56* Abraham, b. about 1735, that is after Sept. 22, 1729, and before May 15, 1739. For the land he received from his eldest brother Isaac, and part of which Abraham, son of Benjamin, deeded his brother Enoch Dec. 12, 1761, see under Enoch (55). For Abraham's acting as administrator of his father's will and making an accounting of the estate June 27, 1760, see under above. Abraham was m. then. Abram Elston son of Benj^{m} "Made Entry of his Ear Mark March ye 14th 1758," Woodbridge.

Probably the following refers to this man. In a census in Morris Township, Morris Co., N. J., in 1772, now in the "N. J. His. Soc. Lib." we find, "Abraham Elston, one dwelling house; one male married, 16-50; three males under 16; three males unmarried; and one female, aged 16-50," the only Elston given. It has been difficult to decide whether this listing referred to this Abraham or to Abraham (103), but personal inspection of the record shows that it should have included a record of births and marriages from July 1, 1771, to July 1, 1772. There were no such births, however, and as it appears that Lewis, son of Abraham (103), was probably b. before July 1, 1772, this strengthened my former conclusions that as Abraham (103) did not have three known ch. born that early, the record probably refers to this Abraham b. about 1735.

Records of Essex County show, Sept. 20, 1776, mortgage for 140 pounds given by Abraham Elston of the Borough of Elizabeth on two tracts of land in Elizabeth Town at Short Hills. This may refer to either Abraham. This Abraham's signature as administrator of his father's estate is still on file in the office of the Sec. of the State of N. J. This identifies him, the author believes, with the Abraham Elston whose signature appears Oct. 22, 1783, on a petition, to the legislature concerning the depreciation of militia pay, as indicated by the following abstracts of letters: "State of New Jersey, Office of the Adjutant General, Trenton. It is certified that Various Kelsey genealogies report that a "Miss DeCamp" (b. 1674) married Joseph Kelsey, probably about 1696. She is not mentioned among any of the other children of Laurent DeCamp and Aeltje de Mandeville, who lived in Staten Island, NY, at that time. The Joseph Kelsey she is supposed to have married is the son of Mark Kelsey and Rebecca Hoskins, and was born in Windsor, CT. He died abt 1742 and she died abt 1739, both in Elizabeth, NJ.

Laurent DeCamp had three sons and three daughters, all of whom reached maturity and have documented marriages. His first child is recorded as Joannes, bapt. 4/2/1677. There is no further information about this child, presumably male, and it has been assumed that he did not reach maturity. There have been some suggestions that this child was female, and married Joseph Kelsey. However, the feminine name in Dutch would have been Joanna or Johanna.

There were no other families of the DeCamp surname living in the New York City/New Jersey at that time. Other families using the surnames "Van Camp" or "Van Campen" lived in the area of Kingston, NY, at that time, as well as in New York City. However, none is known to to have had connections to the Kelsey family, or to have used the DeCamp surname.

Does anyone have any information that might clarify the identity and parents of "Miss DeCamp"?

Other Important Benefits

Employee Assistance Program

Sony provides you and your immediate family, if you are Flex-eligible, short term confidential counseling concerning personal life situations.

Up to eight consultation sessions are provided at no cost to you.

Employee Discount

You are entitled to a discount on the purchase of Sony products.

If you have completed 6 months of service, you may be able to purchase certain products through payroll deduction.

Holidays

Sony observes 11 holidays each year.

LifeWorks™ Family Resource Program

Flex-eligible employees can take advantage of this program which offers expert consultation and referrals in child care and elder care programs, addressing the needs of school age children, or managing the adoption process.

You can access the service as often as you like and it is provided at no cost to you.

Steps To Good Health

Sony provides employees the coverage opportunity for certain "benchmark" preventive diagnostic tests. These tests may be provided at the Sony facility or can be performed by the employee's personal physician.

Additional flex dollars will be allocated for employees who have these designated tests performed or to employees or spouses who are members of a health and fitness center.

Stock Purchase Plan

You can purchase Sony ADR common stock at market prices current at time of purchase through payroll deduction. Broker's commissions are paid by Sony for purchases and dividend reinvestment.

Student Loans

Through U.S. Chamber ConSern, Sony offers Student Loans for employees and their family members at competitive interest rates.

Loan amounts are available up to $100,000.

Vacation

As a Sony employee you accrue vacation on a monthly basis, earning 10 days of vacation after 1 year of service, 15 days of vacation after 4 years and 9 months, and 20 days after 15 years.

Sony's vacation year begins on July 1st and ends on the following June 30th. All vacation days must be taken by June 30th of the year following the vacation year in which they are earned.

Eligible After 6 Months of Employment

Educational Assistance

The Educational Assistance Program is designed to assist full-time employees in the pursuit of training and education advancement at a certified educational institution. Sony will reimburse employees for tuition, fees and books based upon the completion of approved coursework and the grade received.

A	B	C	D	Pass	Fail
100%	90%	70%	0%	100%	0%

Eligible after 12 months of Employment

Matching Gifts

After 1 year of service, Sony will match your contribution of $50.00 or more with an aggregate of $2,000.00 per year to educational institutions, hospitals, art and cultural organizations within the eligibility requirements stipulated by the program.

DISOSWAY.

The name of Du Secoy is found among the Huguenot families who left France before the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. It has been ascertained, from the State records, that Marcus, Job, Peter, Israel, and Susanne, settled on Staten Island, opposite Perth Amboy, more than two centuries ago. The name of Marcus is mentioned in the colonial history in 1673, petitioning for men to be sent to Court at Fort William Henry. A portion of the land originally purchased by this family (500 acres), and the stone house erected upon it, is still owned and occupied by some of the descendants. Like many other French names, unpronouncable to English and Dutch tongues, this has undergone various changes in the course of two hundred years. In the Dutch Church baptismal records, the oldest and most reliable authority, it is always written Du Secoy and Du Secay. In the County records, often copied by careless or illiterate clerks, the name is spelled Dus Souchoy, Dusway, Dusuchoy, Dussoway, Dessoway, Dusosway, Disosway. The fact that the original emigrants were Huguenots, is evidence of their individual piety, and it is said that, during the war of the Revolution, though surrounded by enemies, they were firm in their adherence to the cause of their country.

There are several of the name mentioned in the County records as having purchased land as early as 1687. The following are taken from old church records:

Marcus Du Secoy had a son Gabriel, bap. Apr. 20, 1703, at which Susanna Du Secoy was sponsor; these were, probably, two of the original emigrants. As there was no Gabriel among them, it was the Gabriel whose baptism we have just noticed, who was sponsor at the baptism of his relative's (probably sister's) child, in Jan., 1725, when Dina Du Secoy, wife of Henrick Bries, had a daughter baptized; she had had a son Henrick baptized three years previous.

Israel, and Gertrude Van Deventer, his wife, had a daughter baptized June 3, 1722.

Job, and Sara Deny, his wife, had a son Johannes baptized September 22, 1723.

Cornelius, and Catharine, his wife, had a daughter Ann, baptized December 9, 1757.

Mark and Eliza Cortelyou married November 2, 1790.

DUBOIS.

NOT FCM

Sometimes written Duboys, Debaa, &c.

This was a large family, some of them residing in Brittany, and some in French Flanders. Antoine Dubois, and some of his relatives, fled to England as early as 1583, to escape persecution for their religious opinions. It is not known when the family first came on the Island, nor who was the first of the name; the earliest name mentioned in the church record is that of Louis du Bois, Jun., whose wife's name was Catharine Van Brunt; they had a son Samuel who was baptised Dec. 11, 1737. They had also a son Benjamin, and a son John. Benjamin became a minister of the Reformed Dutch Church in 1764, and was immediately settled over the churches of Freehold and Middletown, N. J., where he remained sixty-three years.

John and Hester his wife had a daughter Mary, born June 27, 1766; he made his will Jan. 17, 1793, which was proved Feb. 1, 1794, in which he speaks of his wife Hester; his daughters, Hester, wife of Lewis Prall; Martha, wife of Daniel Winants; Elizabeth, wife of Charles Laforge; and Mary, wife of James Laforge, and his son Richard.

DU BOIS

There was another John who had a son, Nathaniel R., and died at the age of 87; his son, Nathaniel, died in May, 1874, age 85 years; his wife was Frances Butler.

Lewis and Jane Mersereau married Jan. 12, 1804.

The family, once tolerably numerous and highly respectable, are almost extinct in the county.

DUSTAN.

This family has for many years been identified with the Island. William and Peter were natives of Scotland, and emigrated to America at an early age. The former, locally known as Major Dustan, was born September 11th, 1759, and died on Staten Island, May 23d, 1841, nearly 82 years of age. He left one son, Isaac Kip, whose melancholy death is recorded on his monument in the Moravian Cemetery, as follows: "This monument is erected a tribute of esteem to the memory of Isaac Kip Dustan, aged 38 years and 7 months, who lost his life while in the discharge of his duties as Captain of the ill-fated Steamer Atlantic, off Fisher's Island, during the memorable gale of the 28th of November, 1846."

The monument is surmounted by a marble bell, on which is the following epitaph.

"Far, far o'er the waves, like a funeral knell, Mournfully sounds the Atlantic's bell.
'Tis the knell of the dead, but the living may hear:
'Tis a warning to all, mid the opening year.
In the midst of our life, as we draw out each breath,
How swiftly we haste to the caverns of death;
May the fate of the lost one our own warning be Like a death-knell rung out o'er life's treacherous sea."

Capt. Dustan was a man of powerful frame, who a commanding presence, and a universal favorite. He married a daughter of the late Charles M. Simonson, and left one son, Charles, who, during the late rebellion, entered the Union army as a private, and gradually rose to the rank of Brigadier-General. He is now a resident of the State of Alabama, and a member of its Legislature. The wife of Geo. J. Greenfield, Esq., of Edgewater, is also his daughter.

EDDY.

The present representatives of this family are Cornelius C., of Stapleton, and his cousin James, of Huguenot, in Westfield. The former is the son of William, who was killed by his horse running away, in January, 1828; the latter is the son of John, also deceased. William, John and Andrew, who is still living near Wood-row church, Westfield, were brothers and sons of William, the first of the name, who came here from New Jersey, during the war of the Revolution, with the intention of remaining but a short time; but either the refusal of a pass, or protracted delay in furnishing it, detained him on the Island, until finally, having probably formed some attachment, he relinquished the idea of returning, and settled permanently.

Du Bois

1791 [illegible] which he mentions his wife Susan and his son Peter, a minor.

John, named above, made his will Mar. 16, 1802, proved Feb. 18, 1803; mentions his wife Margaret, his daughters Mary, Margaret, Ann, Sarah and Catharine, and his sons Peter, John and James, deceased.

POST.

Adrian Post, who was, without doubt, the progenitor of the family on Staten Island, was commander of a ship which brought emigrants to the colony before 1650. He was subsequently the superintendent of Baron Van de Cappelan's plantation on the Island. The Indian massacre of 1655 drove him temporarily from the Island, but he soon returned, and resumed his residence here. His family consisted of his wife, five children and two servants. John, who was probably a grandson of Adrian, married Anna Housman, and they had the following sons baptized:

Abraham, April 19, 1743, and
Adrian, April 26, 1748.

Garret and Sarah Ellis had the following sons baptized:

Garret, August 7, 1754.
Abraham, March 12, 1758.

Abraham had a daughter Miriam, born July 31, 1790.

There was another Garret born 1720, and died March 31, 1797.

The notices of this family are very meagre.

PRALL.

The present representatives of the family are:
Hon. Benjamin P. Prall, of Huguenot, Westfield, and his brother Capt. Arthur Prall, of New Springville, Northfield.

Their father was Peter Prall, born 1763, and died Nov. 1, 1822; his father was Benjamin Prall, born 1733, and died 1796; his father was Abraham Prall, born 1706 and died Sep. 28, 1775; his father was Peter Prall, whose name we find recorded as a witness or sponsor at a baptism in 1708; he had an older son than Abraham, viz.: Arent born 1698, and a younger Isaac born 1710.

This brings us very near, or quite to the original of the family. There was, however, an Arent Prall, who probably #439 was either father or brother of the last mentioned Peter. We find his—Arent's—name on record as owning 120 acres of land on Long Neck in 1694.

Other members of the family, not in the above line, were Peter, born Apr. 9, 1737, and died Feb. 28, 1822; his brother Abraham, born 1740, died May 6, 1820; he had two sons, viz. Daniel, drowned Oct. 10, 1817, and Ichabod, a merchant in New York; Daniel married Ann Mersereau Jan. 22, 1794.

Scattered through various records, we find the following, whom we are unable to place, viz.:

Aron, Jun., and his wife Antye Staats, had a daughter born May 21, 1715; a son Aron in 1717; a daughter in 1719, and a son Peter in 1724.

Aron, or Arent, (not Jun.) and his wife Maritje Bowman had a son William Joris, born 1730, and a son Hendrick, born 1735.

Isaac (probably the son of Abraham, above mentioned) and his wife Maria Debaa or Dubois, had a daughter born 1746, and another in 1748; a son Peter in 1744, and a son Lewis in 1751.

Benjamin and his wife Sarah Swaim had a son Abraham born in 1752, and a son John in 1766.

John (wife's name not given) had a daughter born in 1719.

a minor.

John, named above, made his will Mar. 16, 1768, proved Feb. 18, 1771; mentions his wife Margaret, his daughters Mary, Margaret, Ann, Sarah and Catharine, and his sons Peter, John and James, deceased.

PRALL.

Arent Prall, who was, without doubt, the progenitor of the family on Staten Island, was commander of a ship which brought emigrants to the colony before 1660. He was subsequently the superintendent of Baron Van de Capellen's plantation on the island. The Indian massacre of 1655 drove him temporarily from the island, but he soon returned, and resumed his residence here. His family consisted of his wife, five children and two servants. Aron, who was probably a grandson of Arent, married Anna Bowman, and they had the following sons baptized:

Abraham, April 10, 1713, and
Adrian, April 30, 1718.

Daniel and Sarah Ellis had the following sons baptized:

Daniel, August 7, 1754,
Abraham, March 16, 1755.

Abraham had a daughter Miriam, born July 31, 1765.

There was another Daniel born 1732 and died March 31, 1797.

The notices of this family are very meagre.

The present representatives of the family are:

Hon. [illegible] Prall, of [illegible], Westfield, and his brother Capt. [illegible] Prall, of New Springville, Northfield.

Their father was Peter Prall, born 1786, and died Nov. 7, 1859; his father was Benjamin Prall, born 1758, and died 1780; his father was Abraham Prall, born 1700 and died Sep. 28, 1770; his father was Isaac Prall, whose name we find recorded as a witness or sponsor at a baptism in 1708; he had an older son than Abraham, viz.: Arent born 1695, and a younger Isaac born 1710.

This brings us very near, or quite, to the original of the family. There was, however, an Arent Prall, who was probably the elder father or brother of the last mentioned Peter. We find him [illegible] on record as owning 120 acres of land on [illegible] in 1684.

Other members of the family, not in the above line, were: Peter, born Apr. 9, 1787, and died Feb. 28, 1870; his brother Abraham, born 1791, died May 6, 1869; he had two sons, viz.: Daniel, drowned Oct. 19, 1827, and Ezekiel, a merchant in New York; Daniel married Ann Mersereau Jan. 30, 1808.

Scattered through various records, we find the following, whom we are unable to place, viz.:

Aron, Jr., and his wife Antje Staats, had a daughter born May 31, 1710; a son Aron in 1717; a daughter in 1719, and a son Peter in 1720.

Aron, or Arent, (not Jr.,) and his wife Mary Bowman had a son William Jones, born 1720, and a son Benjamin, born 1722.

Isaac (probably the son of Abraham, above mentioned,) and his wife Maria Tober, of Bergen, had a daughter born 1746, and another in 1747; a son Peter in 1751, and a son Lewis in 1755.

Benjamin and his wife Sarah Swain had a son Abraham born in 1782, and a son John in 1786.

John (wife's name not given) had a daughter born in 1719.

Abraham and Sarah Cannon were married Aug. —, 1776.

John and Martha Latourette were married Jan. 14, 1802.

There was a Wolford Praule, who was a freeholder as early as 1695, but he was not probably connected with this family, as his name was spelled differently, and there is no further notice of him.

RYERSS.

We find this name at an early date on Long Island. Arie Ryerse and Maerte Ryerse were assessed as owners of property at Middelwout, now Flatbush, in 1676, but when their connection with Staten Island began is unknown.

Adrian was born 1715, and died December 12, 1779; his wife was Hester Debaa (Dubois;) their son Lewis was born December 7, 1754, and died April 13, 1806.

Aris, another son of Adrian, had a daughter baptized July 27, 1786, and a son David, baptized October 17, 1790.

Gozen, also a son of Adrian, made his will October 21, 1800, proved January 13, 1802, in which he speaks of his son John P., and his daughter Margaret, his brother Lewis, and his grandsons Gozen Adrian Ryers, and Ryerss De Hart.

He was an exceedingly obese man, and required two ordinary chairs to sit upon; his wife was in the same condition. He was a wealthy man, and owned property in various parts of the county. In 1791 he became the owner of 300 acres of land, in the eastern part of the State, which, when the line between New York and Massachusetts was finally determined, fell within the latter State. To compensate him for the loss of this land, the State of New York gave him a patent for 1800 acres in Wilmington Township, Essex County, which is known as Ryerss' grant to this day. He dwelt for many years preceding his death at Port Richmond, in the large house known as the Continental Hotel. He was a very prominent and useful man; he was supervisor of Northfield from 1785 to 1787; a member of the Constitutional Convention in 1788; he was Member of Assembly from 1791 to 1794, and first Judge of the County from 1797 to his death. His brother Lewis was sheriff in 1788 –'90, and Member of Assembly from 1795 to 1797. His son John P. was a Member of Assembly 1800.

Probably the only remaining member of the family on the Island is Mr. David R. Ryerss, living near the Moravian Church.

SEGUINE.

We have been unsuccessful in our efforts to obtain reliable information with regard to the origin of this family, and are obliged to be content with such as can be found in the local records, the earliest of which is—

Jean and Elizabeth Hooper, had a son Jonas, bap. Dec. 12, 1725.

Jaques and Lady Mambrut, daughter Sara, bap. Mar. 3, 1728.

A son Jean, bap. Mar. 19, 1732.

Jean and Jaques stood sponsors for each other's children; they were probably brothers. The above are from the records of the Dutch Church; the following are from those of St. Andrews:

James and Elsee, daughter Sara, born Apr., 1756.

Son James, born Dec. 10, 1760.

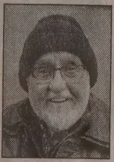
Robert L. 'Bob' Poziwilko

2-9
2019

Robert L. "Bob" Poziwilko, 89, of St. Joseph passed away on Thursday, Feb. 7, 2019, at Hanson Hospice Center in Stevensville.



POZIWILKO

A Celebration of Life service will be held at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at Starks & Menchinger Chapel and Cremation Services, 2650 Niles Road, St. Joseph. Burial will follow in Crystal Springs Cemetery. Friends may visit with the family from 4-7 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 11, at the funeral home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Salvation Army in Benton Harbor, Refreshing Fountains Church of Benton Harbor or the charity of your choice. Those wishing to leave a condolence online may do so at www.starks-menchinger.com.

Bob was born on Jan. 15, 1930, in Benton Harbor, to James and Laurel (Badgley) Poziwilko. He was a graduate of Benton Harbor High School. Bob worked in the construction industry for more than 60 years. He was a partner in Superior Home Builders established in 1960, later known as Superior Builders, Inc., and currently known as Superior Property Management. Superior Builders was responsible for the development and construction of numerous subdivisions, apartment complexes and condominiums in Berrien, Cass and Van Buren County – including Lake Pines Apartments, The Shores Apartments, Camelot Condominiums and Sunset Shores Condominiums.

Bob had many passions in his life including becoming a pilot, traveling, boating and hunting. He also enjoyed watching the Chicago Bears.

Bob is survived by his children, Elizabeth "Beth" (Joseph) Poziwilko-Wharton of Stevensville and Chalet Sturgeon of St. Joseph; grandchildren: Cody Sturgeon, Nathan Sturgeon, April Thomas and Rebecca Dittmer; great-grandchild, Raylan Thomas; siblings: Yvonne Post, Eugene (Linda) Poziwilko, Patrick (Shirley) Poziwilko and Jerry "Dan" Poziwilko; and sister-in-law, JoAnne Poziwilko.

Bob was preceded in death by his parents, James and Laurel Poziwilko; son, Ronald Poziwilko; and brother, Donald Poziwilko.

BADGLEY

THE BADGLEYS

Lyn Allison Yeager, 2620 Kiwanis Drive, Bowling Green, KY 42101

There are several spellings of the name BADGLEY: BAGGELY, BAGLEY, BAGILEY, BAGGILEY, BAGUELEY, BAGGELY and BAGGALIEGH. Some of these, of course, are results of unreadable script. At least two of these, BAGGELY and BADGLEY are of a Cheshire County, England family. In Baggely Hall a Crusader Coat of Arms is impaneled in the wall of the dining room. Another coat of arms and effigy of Sir William BAGGELY in armour is inlaid in the floor. That dining hall is forty-two feet long and is thirty-eight feet from floor to ceiling. The windows are seventeen feet tall.

In America the BAGGLEY family had a large plantation, "The Garden," in Montgomery County, Maryland. Henry BAGGLEY, a Catholic, was converted to Methodism and built a chapel on his land in 1805 and freed his slaves.

A Charles BAGGLEY married an Elizabeth STEARNS on May 27, 1682 in New Jersey. Their descendants lived in Washington, D. C. as late as 1926.

As early as 1634 a Jo. BAGGLEY sailed to Virginia on the merchant ship "Bonaventure" and took the oath of allegiance on January 2, 1634. In 1635 Thomas BAGGELAY, age 24, sailed from England on the "Amitie" to the West Indies.

The name BAGLEY in England meant one who came from the rams or pigs' woodland. People whose names were spelled this way were in Amelia County, Virginia in 1763 on 900 acres of land on the south side of Bush River "Joining the line of Haskin and Randolph." By 1825, or earlier, persons who spelled their name BAGLEY were in the town of Vandalia, Illinois--so the court records show.

Other persons whose name had this same spelling lived in Massachusetts in 1658, in Connecticut in 1790, in New York in 1755, New Hampshire in 1790, Virginia in 1634, Maine in 1790, South Carolina in 1783 and Maryland in 1778.

BADGLEYS were in New York as early as 1698, then New Jersey in 1747, Virginia in 1773 and Illinois in 1797. The BADGLEY family which settled in Illinois in 1797 originated in England. Their ancestors in America were first in Flushing, Long Island, New York in the late 1600s. By 1687 they were in Brooklyn. This family was George and Rachel (HATFIELD) BADGLEY, on a plantation and owning one slave.

In 1698 Anthony and Elizabeth (THORN) BADGLEY also lived in Flushing, Long Island. They, too, had one slave and these children: Anthony, Jr., George, Phebe, John and perhaps a James and Sarah. The Anthony, Jr., (1695-1732) was in Capt. WRIGHT's Company in the military in 1715.

The Rev. David BADGLEY was born in Essex County, New Jersey, November 5, 1749. His parents were Anthony and Ruth. In 1768, when David was nineteen, the family moved to Hampshire County, Virginia. The next year David married Rhoda BALLENTINE*. In 1774 both David and Rhoda were converted. In 1775 David was baptized and joined a Baptist church. He immediately became interested and active in the church, became an elder, a sort of lay-preacher, and by 1795 was ordained as a Baptist minister. David and Rhoda's children were: Aaron, b. 1773; Ichabod, b. 1780; Priscilla, b. 1783; David, Jr., b. 1786; Job, b. 1788; Abraham, b. 1793; Rachel; Mary; and Elizabeth.

Here are the families of these children:

Aaron, b. in Hardy Co., VA, 1773; m. Hethy STROTHER. Moved to Illinois in 1797. His wife and the two children, one of which was born on the trip from Virginia to Illinois, died. On June 20, 1799 David married Catherine STROUD (1778-1868) and they had five sons and three daughters: Isaac, Elijah, Adam, Strother, David, Jedida, Rebecca and Eva. They lived in St. Clair County. Aaron was a flour miller, farmer and justice of the peace and a ranger. In 1813 he made a trip on horseback to Virginia and hauled back to Illinois merchandise which was marketed in Springfield. He made several other such trips. On December 29, 1858 Aaron BADGLEY died.

Ichabod, David's second son, was born on December 5, 1780. Ichabod married Elizabeth ATCHESON, "Betsy." After her death Ichabod married again and reared a family of nine:

* Some books give the name as VALENTINE.

BADGLEYS

Ephraim, David, Mahala, Hannah, Rhoda, Peggy, Polly, Rosetta and Elizabeth.

Ichabod was fond of music and taught in pioneer singing schools. He was Justice of the Peace for four years. When his parents were old and feeble, he moved in with and cared for them and then lived on in their home after they died. Ichabod died on July 25, 1856.

Priscilla was born July 25, 1783. She married Solomon TETER. She was never well and died in 1818. They had no children.

David, Jr. was born January 25, 1786. He married Becky TEATOR February 28, 1804, and his father performed the ceremony. Their children were: Absolom, Abraham, Priscilla and Sarah. David was killed by a horse throwing him against a tree in 1811. His widow later married a man named PORTER.

Job was born in Hardy County, Virginia August 1, 1788. Reared on the farm, he never liked it and became a brick layer. In Illinois his brick kiln was on the Branch west of Hartman's at the old ford in St. Clair County. He also ran a sawmill with oxen and had a water mill on Silver Creek. He built the first brick house in Centerville. October 25, 1810 he married Micha WILDERMAN (1793-1856). They had ten children: John (1813-1852), Benjamin (1816-1842), David (1819-), Aaron (1821-1874), George (1826-1874), Simon Peter (1828-), William W. (1832-), Thomas (d. in infancy), Emily (1811-1843), Loretta (1823-1854). Job moved to Texas and died there on April 11, 1854.

Abraham was born in 1793. He was a pleasant man and held very firm opinions. He was a good farmer and never seemed to worry. Abraham also served as a Ranger, a Justice of the Peace, County Assessor, County Commissioner and even as a tooth puller. He rode a horse named Tone and enjoyed jumping fences when on the chase with the hounds. In 1812 he married Rachel BONHAM. Their children were: Martin, Rufina, Rhoda, Martha, Hannah, Suffie and Polly. In 1827 Abraham married Arpy JOHNSON and they had one daughter, Nancy Jane. Later he married the widow HENLY. Abraham died in 1857.

Rachel married Daniel STARR. Their children were: Jeremia, Henry, Daniel, Polly, Catherine and Rhoda.

Mary married Jeremiah HAND and her father gave them land on which to settle. They sold it and moved to Green County. Their children were: Solomon, Stephen, Rhoda, Rachel, Sarah, Priscilla, Rebecca, Terminda and Mills.

Elizabeth married John STARR July 6, 1798. They had one son who died. Later she married Joel SMITH, and they had one daughter and two sons in Montgomery County.

Rev. David BADGLEY founded and pastored the first Baptist church, New Design, in the Illinois Territory in 1797 the same year he moved from Virginia to Illinois. After a few years BADGLEY built and lived in a house near what is now O'Fallon, Illinois. That house is still partially standing on the property of Attorney Robert L. JENNINGS. David BADGLEY died December 16, 1824; his grave is on a wooded hill somewhat to the rear of the attorney's home.

BADEAU, Elie (b. St. Georges, Saintonge, now department of Charente Inferieure, France), son of Pierre and Marie (Triau) Badeau; he was a Huguenot and came from Eng.; settled at New Rochelle and in Westchester co., N.Y.; one account states that Jean Magnon, tailor, a Huguenot, formerly of Tonneins, Guyenne, France (son of the deceased Jacques Magnon and his wife Judith Herbe) was m. Feb. 4, 1695, in the French Church, Bristol, Eng., to Claude, dau. of Elie Badeau; that their son Jean was bap. in that Church July 25, 1697; that John Magnon, "taylor," came to New York, 1697 or 98, and was made free of the city, May 15, 1705; that on Oct. 23, 1698, his son Elie, and Feb. 4, 1700, his dau. Marie were bap. in the French Church, N.Y. City; was the "head of a family," 1704, but had removed in 1707 to New Rochelle, N.Y., where the name became "Mannion;" the above account might indicate that Elie, Sr., had m. twice and that Claude was his dau. by his first wife, or possibly that she was his sister instead of dau.; m. Bristol, Eng., Aug. 30, 1696, Claude (Fume) Blondeau, dau. of Daniel Fume, and widow of Francois Blondeau; issue: 1-Elie (b. Oct. 29, 1698, bap. in French Church, N.Y. City); also prob. 2-John (b. New Rochelle, 1699-d. abt. Mar. 21, 1787), settled at Red Mills, Putnam co., N.Y., abt. 1775; m. and had 3 sons, 1 dau. (see B348-H1455-N206d).

ried Maria, daughter of Thomas Stead, and had S phia Elizabeth; Sarah Anne, who married Israel, so of Moses Moore, Feb. 21, 1849, and had David Allen Elias, who married Elizabeth C. Spencer, daughter James L. Spencer, Feb. 28, 1849, and had Cornelia David, John, and Mary. In the Allen buryin ground, the oldest in the township, rest the remain of many of the old pioneers and their descendants.

Anthony Badgley was an early settler. He was th third son of Anthony, the third son of James Badgle who came to the Valley between the First and Secon Mountains in 1736–37, where he had surveyed to hi by the Elizabethtown surveyor a tract of 400 acre lying above Blue Brook, and extending south to th top of the First Mountain. The descendants wer very numerous, and some of them settled in Warre township. Hence we find Alfred Badgley holdin office in the township in 1849.

George Brown, son of Andrew, lived on Stony Hill where John W. Hand afterwards resided. His wife' name was Elizabeth Martin, of Woodbridge. Sh died Aug. 6, 1777, aged twenty-five, and he afterward married a Wood, sister of Samuel, of Dayton, and o Esther, the wife of Jonathan Totten. His childre were Thompson, whose name occurs frequently in th town records; Noah, who died at about twenty-two

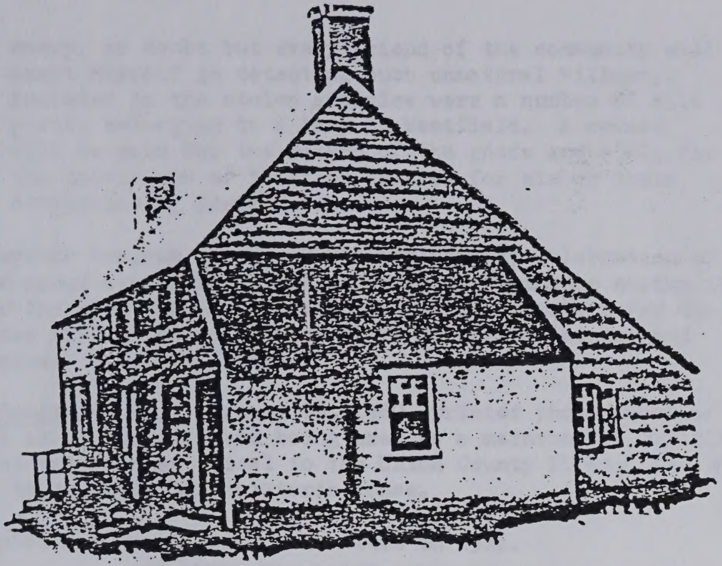
John Badgley



Badgley House—off New Providence Rd., Mountainside

The Badgley farmhouse on New Providence Road was built by the pioneers, James and John. It was apparently built in two sections, the earliest section may date from the early 1700's. It is located off New Providence Road in the Union County Park Commission Watchung Reservation. It is a handmade house, the frames were hewn in the woods, the lath and shingles are hand-split, the plaster made of lime and clay from their own ground. The nails were made by the local blacksmith, white pine pegs were used to fasten the frames and floor. One section uses gun posts in the framing. When Mr. Frederick S. Taggart bought the farm in 1909, the old house was beyond repair and he moved it to the rear. Mr. A. Ayers bought the house later. It is now owned by the Park Commission and used as a storage shed.

When the British were expected to enter Westfield, the residents sent their valuables to Badgleys thinking they would be safe so far out of town. It may have been raided because the farmhouse was used as a refugee by "rebel" citizens of Westfield during the Battle of Short Hills, June 26, 1777, and again during the Battle of Springfield. The New Jersey Journal on July 5, 1780, printed the following:

> Raiders at Badgleys
> During the recent raids in this vicinity, quantities of linen, clothing, a state lottery ticket, silver, etc., were stolen from the home of John Badgley, living on the mountain above Westfield. As the above articles were sent abroad to keep them from the raids of our more than savage enemy, no doubt but every friend of the community will exert himself in detecting such unnatural villancy. Included in the stolen articles were a number of silk gowns, belonging to a lady in Westfield. A reward will be paid for the return of the goods and $500, for the detections of thief or thieves for his or their conviction by Edwin Marsh.

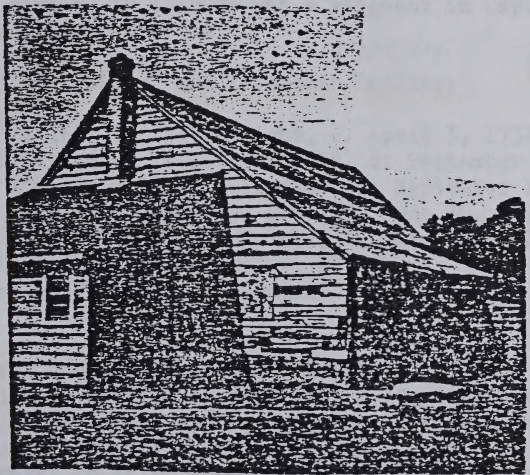
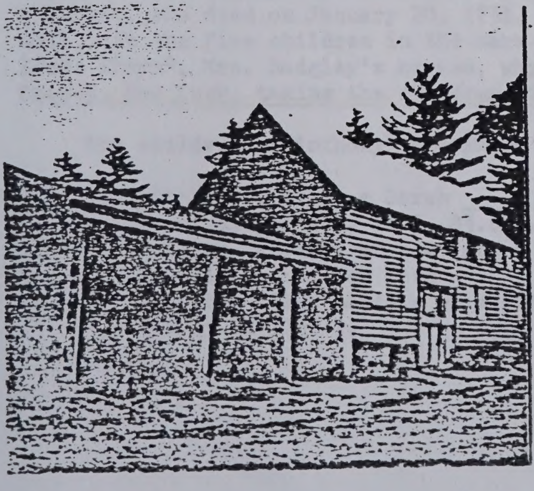
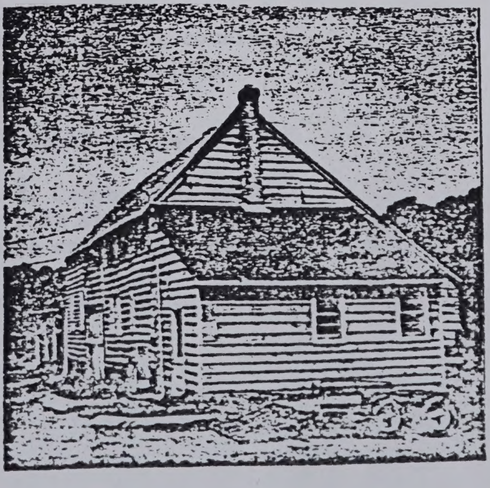
A Souvenir Program for the 200th Anniversary Celebration of Westfield shows a picture of the old Badgley farmhouse saying it was "over the hill beyond Pot Luck and was headquarters for the farmers of that district when 'barn dances, raisings, and barbecues' were the fashion."

The Courier-News, February 29, 1980, printed photographs of the house as it is today and being used as a maintenance building by the county. An appeal to the Union County Freeholders was made to preserve this historic house.

The pictures shown below were taken in 1981.







The exact date of arrival of Anthony Badgley from England is not known. Badgleys were in New York as early as 1688, in New Jersey in 1747, Virginia in 1773, Illinois in 1797, and Michigan in 1847. Anthony Badgley was married to Elizabeth around 1692. ✓ # 2841 THORNE
A petition for a warrant of survey for his lot in Flushing, Long Island, New York, was made under the date of March 3, 1694, in order to put a stop to the encroachments of "Hemp Lot" by Thomas Hedger and others. This petition was granted on August 9, 1697. In 1698, when a list of all inhabitants was made, Anthony and his wife, three children and a negro slave were shown. In 1700, they are known to have had a plantation at Flushing. They are listed in the town census in the Dutch Section, possible Elizabeth was Dutch. Anthony was one of a company which purchased through Peter Sonmans, one hundred and seventy thousand acres lying about thirty-three miles to the northwest of Elizabethtown in New Jersey. The Indians were paid 200 pounds in cash and goods for this tract, the Badgley share was one-fourteenth. A copy of this deed precedes this page. In July 1711, the Tax List shows "account of each inhabitant of Flushing provisions as follows: 23 pounds of bacon, 6 bushels of wheat, and one bushel of Indian corn." In 1715 he was a sargeant in Captain Jonathan Wright's Company Militia.

Anthony^3 (James^2, Anthony^1) son of James and Hannah (Kelsey) Badgley, was born 1733. He married 175_ to Anne, daughter of Johnathon and Jennet (Magie) Woodruff, who was born 175_ at the foot of the mountain on the road from Westfield to New Providence. They lived on what is now Mountain Avenue in Westfield Township. In 1785-6 there was a great religious revival at Westfield and in 1786 eleven of the 34 people who joined the church were Badgleys. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Badgley were on the Communicant List dated 1786. A 1757 Salary List shows agreement with the Minister for 7 shillings. Anne Woodruff was the sister of Aaron Woodruff, one of the jurors at the trial of James Morgan, slayer of the famous fighting parson Reverend James Caldwell. The Westfield Township List shows that Anthony was living in Westfield in a one-story frame house, 20 x 34 feet with 6 windows; owned one outhouse, and 100 acres of land, including the lot on which the house stood. The total assessed valuation was 600 pounds. Another list, taken about the same time shows that he owned two horses and three horned cattled. Anthony died June 30, 1803, and is buried in the Westfield Presbyterian Churchyard. His tombstone reads:

Affliction fore longtime I bore,
Physician(s) were in vain,
Till God alone did hear my moan,
And ease me of my pain.

PETER WILLCOCKSE.

PETER WILLCOCKSE came from England, and settled between the mountains, on a hill known to this day as "Peter's Hill," on the north side of Blue Brook, a little above Feltville, 6th January, 1736,–7. There was surveyed to him there, by Joseph Morss, surveyor for the "Elizabethtown Associates" 424 acres of land, lying along the east branch of Green Brook, called Blue Brook; Feltville is situated on this tract.

The Rev. Mr. Hunting, in his history of the Parish of Westfield, says that "this Parish was settled about the year 1720, by the English, and that James Badgley and Peter Willcox located on the mountain before any persons settled below, because it abounded in heavy timber."

Peter Willcockse married Phebe Badgley, sister of James and John Badgley, lately from Long Island, and had children:

2d Gen
1. Peter Willcox, Jun. who married Betsey Miller.
2. William, who married, 1st, Miss Howel: 2d, Betsey Hole, sister of Charles Hole.

Clos'd are those eyes in endless night
No more to beam with fond delight,
Or with affection roll.
Eternal silence seals that tongue
Where sence and soft persuasion hung
To captivate the soul that
Oh, she was all thought can paint
The mortal rising to the saint

Notes on this family:

Birthdates + Places for Anthony and Elizabeth from Ancestral File - I know of no documentation thereof

Only evidence for Elizabeths last names is reference in will of Anthony (Jr.) to his cousin, Isaac Thorn

Anthony, Elizabeth + first three children definitely in Flushing 1698 - published local census

Anthony, Elizabeth, and oldest son Anthony never came to New Jersey, although Anthony was one of 14 investors who obtained proprietary deed to large tract of land north west of Elizabeth in 1708. The other six came to New Jersey circa 1720

Notes on place names in NJ - all of the Badgley's settled in the Elizabethtown area, George in Elizabeth proper and the rest west of the town. In the 18th century, this was Essex county, but the part of the county which became Union County. Everyone seems to choose different names based on modern boundaries - you will see references to New Providence, Springfield, Scotch Plains, Union, Westfield, Turkey, Mountainside, Summit, "Passaic Valley", etc., etc as well as "Union" and "Essex" - in general, specific town names cannot be trusted, Most of the church records are from New Providence Presb. and Westfield Presby. - but different researchers will put everything in NP or Westfield or even Elizabeth. My listings tend to follow sources, or use New Providence.

Notes: on this family

James' will published in NJ archive (abstract) - some additional daughters listed in Ancestral file - Hannah, Elizabeth, Rachel, Sarah, Marcy ~~are all~~ wrong - they are listed in the will as granddaughters - actually daughters of Mercy and Abraham Vreeland (or Freland)

daughters

Various sources list "Mercy, Carles" as 7th child based on will - I suspect this is second marriage of Mercy

See place names note above - all of these children were probably born on the family property in what was then Elizabeth, but referred to as the "west fields" near what was called "Turkey" which became New Providence - and is technically now "Mountainside"

Notes on this family - best source is
"Genealogy and History of Anthony Badgley", Joyce Burt Derringer, 1982 (8549 Duncan Plains Road, Alexandria, Ohio, 43001) Copies may still be available from her - I got one 3 or 4 years ago)
All birthdates listed here are from that source - all birthplaces probably Westfield/Elizabeth area

Derringer includes photocopy of Joseph's will (feb 15, 1783) which mentions Ruth, then single. Her marriage is in IGI - Westfield Presbyterian records, "Ruth" is not a common name in the Badgley family - I ~~know~~ have only seen records of 4 Ruth Badgleys - One in the 19th century, one in the New York branch born in the 1770s whose marriage is known, and one born in NJ in 1792

→ Joseph Badgley was a Revolutionary War soldier, ~~participating in the Battle of Monmouth and successfully applied for a pension, April 16, 1818~~ / ~~He is buried in the "Wilcox Family Ground" in what is now Mountainside, NJ~~

Ignore pension & battle of Monmouth - wrong Joseph!

Again - the place names are confused, but probably all occurred in the Westfield/
New Providence area

Dear Fran,

Thanks for your letter and info. I am enclosing my wife's pedigree (part of it) - she is descended from Anthony Badgley via the Willcocks line and via the Hedges line.

I am accumulating information on the Badgleys, and have been for several years (about 2500 Badgley descendants in the computer) and hope, some day, to get it all sorted out.

I am enclosing family group sheets for your 3 badgley families, with handwritten notes.

I'm confident your Ruth is the daughter ~~son~~ of Joseph, since there are no records of any other Ruth that early, and no subsequent records that conflict in any way. The primary records (her fathers will and the marriage record) put her in the right place at the right time. All of the secondary records I've seen (most notably Derringer - see FG 361 notes) either assert or are consistant with the marriage of Ruth, daughter of Joseph, to Smith Ludlum, son of Obadiah, Sr.

I will be adding all of the Badgley desendants from your notes for Hamilton and Smith Day Ludlum to my computer PAF data base. If there is a similar sheet for Smith Ludlum (your #357) could I get a copy?

You may want to try to get a copy of the Derringer book, which contains a lot of good material (she is descended from Ruth's brother Timothy) - if you can't get in touch with her, it should be possible to make a photocopy of my copy (about 80 pages). ~~You might also want to pursue Joseph's revolutionary pension application (from the date in 1815, it had to be filed by his widow - he died in 1785)~~. ← ignore this - wrong Joseph

Thank you again - I hope this helps - let me know if you have any questions about any of this.

Al Jones

PS - sorry about strikeouts - I almost gave you data for the wrong Joseph (Joseph, son of James, son of James).
